THE REGULATION CONUNDRUM

Walker & Miller has noticed, as you probably have also, that the regulations within our industry are getting tighter by the month. While many would agree that these changes are necessary for the growth and development of our industry, the push for regulated broker education has left many, busy mortgage professionals in some what of a conundrum. You can see there is benefit in obtaining the required qualifications, but are too busy writing business and simply do not have the time to complete a course covering topics you already know.

EXPERIENCE COUNTS

With Walker & Miller your existing industry experience counts. Our Training Development Team has seen these issues and created a course to target the specific problem. By seeking recognition of experience from peers or supervisors and establishing the prescribed skills and knowledge from your existing business. We are able to provided industry experts with qualifications representative of their industry intelligence.

CAN YOU QUALIFY

If you have been working within the industry for more than two years, have a peer or supervisor who can attest to your industry experience and at least one fully documented loan, then there is a good chance that you are eligible for a Certificate IV under our Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) Course.
